

JPI Urban Europe

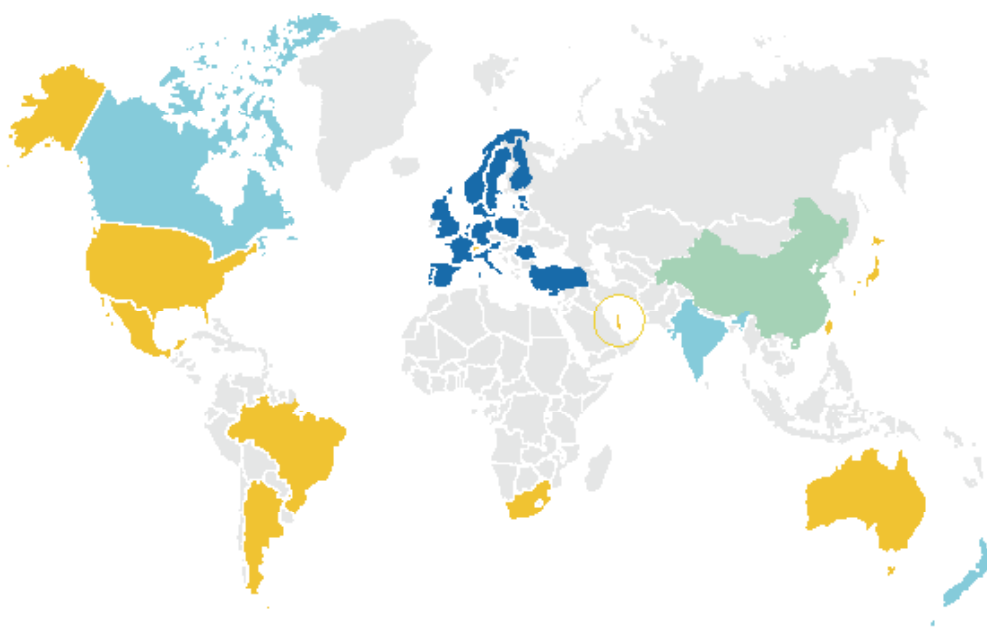

THE KNOWLEDGE HUB FOR URBAN TRANSITIONS

SUPPORT EUROPE'S CITIES IN THEIR TRANSITION TOWARDS A SMART URBAN FUTURE

20 COUNTRIES ACTIVELY SUPPORT JPI URBAN EUROPE AND PARTICIPATE IN ITS ACTIVITIES

The joint programming initiative (JPI) Urban Europe was established in 2010 to address the global urban challenges of today with the ambition to develop a European research and innovation hub on urban matters and create European solutions by means of coordinated research. As of today, 20 European countries engage in JPI Urban Europe and targeted efforts are being made to reach out to new countries in Europe as well as internationally.

JPI Urban Europe welcomes anyone with a drive and concern to improve 21st century urban life. Our mission is to develop knowledge, tools and platforms for dialogue on urban transitions. Our task is to connect public authorities, civil society, scientists, innovators, business and industry to provide a new environment for urban research and innovation. We offer experimental zones and long-term research infrastructures in a broad sense.

STRENGTHENING EUROPEAN CAPACITIES AND EXPERTISE IN URBAN TRANSITIONS

7 JOINT CALLS LAUNCHED, 111 MILL EUR ALLOCATED CALL BUDGET, 80 MILL EUR GRANTED BUDGET, 73 PROJECTS, 445 PROJECT PARTNERS

JOINT CALLS

Since 2012, JPI Urban Europe has launched annual calls addressing specific areas and priorities in the Strategic Research and Innovation Agenda, until today more than 70 projects have been funded and 80 Mill EUR granted. The number of national funding agencies supporting the calls and allocated budgets has continuously increased over time. The call “Making Cities work” launched in 2017 piloted and realised a challenge driven approach with cities as main stakeholders. Cities were involved already in the process of developing the call and as active partners in the projects, ensuring the relevance

CO-CREATION TO CREATE NEW URBAN PRACTICES

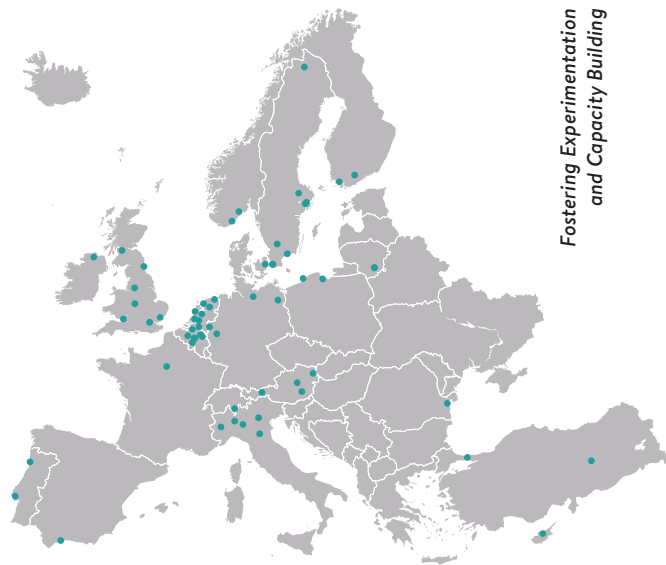

To date, approximately 450 project partners across Europe and beyond are involved in projects funded by JPI Urban Europe calls. Partners include universities, research organisations, city administrations, business and non profit organisations. Implementation of new solutions can often be hindered by institutional and cultural barriers but by facilitating co-creation and science-policy cooperation across national borders in projects, the introduction of new urban practices is

30 + URBAN LIVING LABS, 20 + EVENTS AND SEMINARS SINCE 2015, 2000 NEWSLETTER SUBSCRIBERS

30+ URBAN LIVING LABS ACROSS EUROPE

Nearly half of the 73 JPI Urban Europe funded projects apply urban living labs approaches. Urban living labs are arenas for experimentation, innovation and transformation, while providing test grounds in a real-world environment. Urban living labs address various issues including urban governance, water management, e-participation, mobility management, interethnic coexistence, stakeholder involvement, etc.

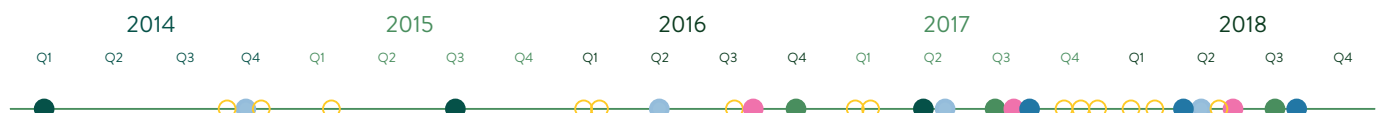

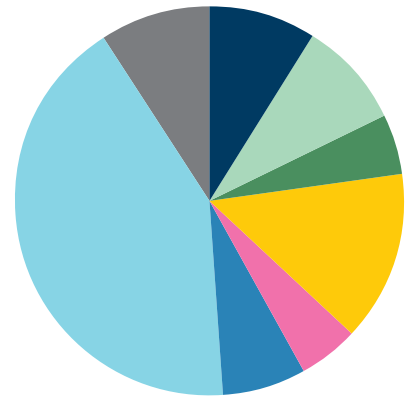

THE AGORA – TEAMING UP ACROSS SECTORS

The Agora – JPI Urban Europe’s Stakeholder Involvement Platform – provides a meeting space for urban actors from a diversity of backgrounds - researchers, practitioners, public administrators, entrepreneurs, social innovators, etc. - to team up, engage in dialogues, explore future scenarios and develop joint strategies for transformation on the ground in cities.

Next to the Agora events, JPI Urban Europe regularly organizes policy and stakeholder conferences with high visibility in Brussels, Urban Transition Pathways Symposia, match-making events, Project Meetings and many workshops and seminars to gather stakeholders in a steadily growing community and to liaise with long term partners.
