JPI URBAN EUROPE PROJECTS MEETING III

JPI Urban Europe invites all funded projects and other key actors in the JPI Urban Europe community to the third Projects Meeting in Brussels on the 31st of May 2017.

The meeting provides an opportunity for the project partners to meet and to share knowledge, present results, engage in strategic discussions and to find partners for future cooperation. For the projects funded in the ERA-NET Cofund Smart Urban Futures the Projects Meeting is the official kick-off.

JPI Urban Europe continuously expands its portfolio of research projects. To bring most value from this, the programme management aims to strengthen the urban research and innovation community, building upon projects results, identifying barriers for inter- and transdisciplinary cooperation and needs for new approaches in funding and programming and providing a platform to exchange views, network and match-make for future calls or activities. Annual projects meetings are important forums for this.

Present project results

At the meeting representatives from JPI Urban Europe management board will share information about the latest developments in terms of programme management and priorities for future calls and activities. All projects funded in the ERA-NET Cofund Smart Urban Futures are invited to present their projects in a cavalcade of short pitches. Three projects from pilot call I and II and ERA-NET Cofund Smart Cities and Communities that are near to completion will be invited to present their results at the meeting. Please contact katarina.schylberg@iqs.se if you wish to make a presentation.

Share skills and engage in in-depth discussions in workshops

Projects are invited to share skills and learn from each other in specific areas related to communication of results, influencing policy, approaching potential project partners, setting up urban living labs and keeping stakeholders involved over time. Participants will have the opportunity to share insight and give feedback on each other's projects in a poster session and to engage in content related in-depth discussions, to explore the links in ongoing projects and future cooperation in breakout sessions.

Participants can also choose to sign up for the workshop Bridging the gap between research & real life in cities – How can science respond to urban challenges? that takes place in the afternoon and addresses the question of how to successfully implement research results in practice.
