Playgrounds

A combination of physical and virtual spaces where (political) goals are reframed, and where shared value is co-created through experimentation that is open, random and supportive. All the while respecting ecological, social and economical boundaries.

Learning Society

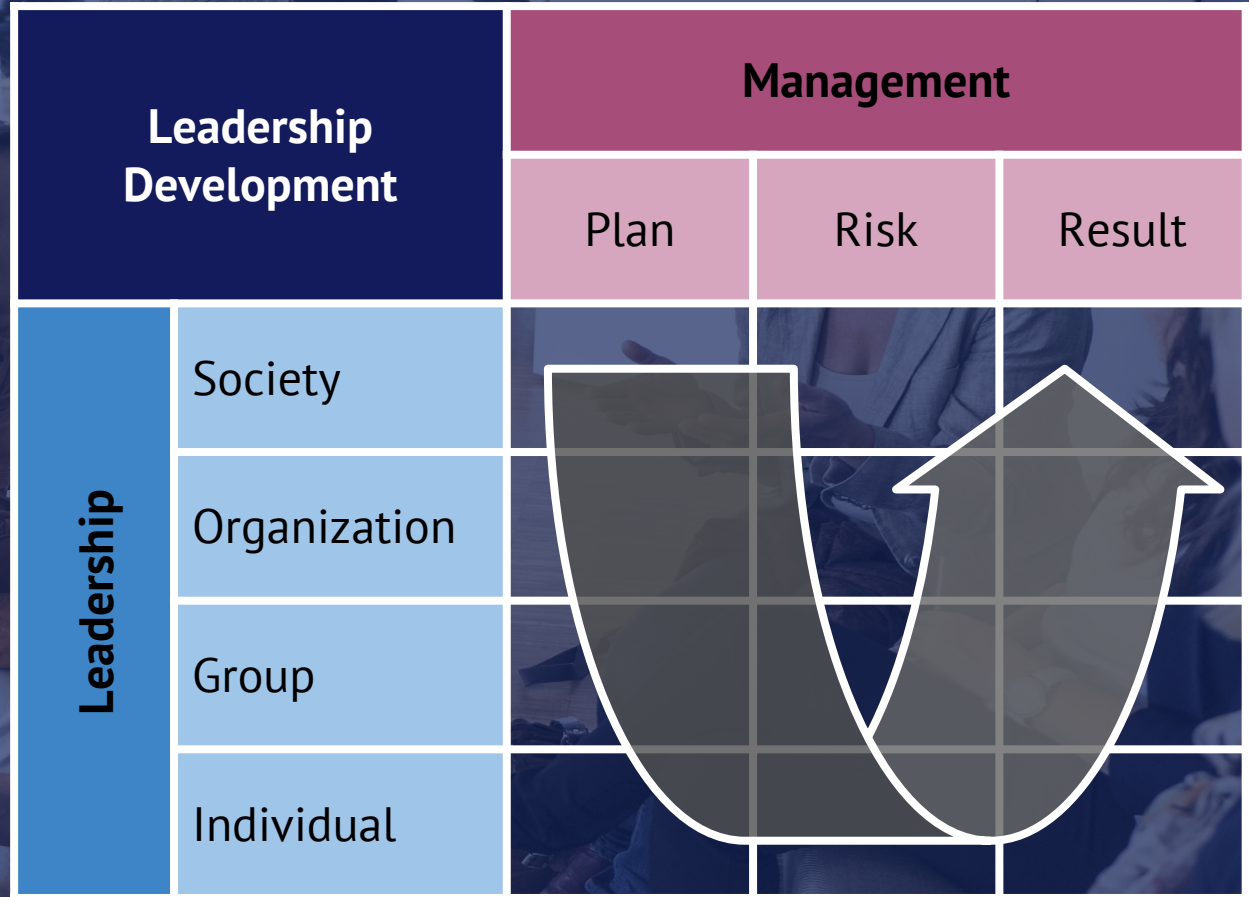

Leadership as a Service

How do we know what works?

Why should people care?

Who will do the work?

Nordic Smart City Network

Open calendar where anyone can map experiments to create a river of initiatives and people

Listen in for emerging patterns and and amplify what people are already doing

Map available incubators and align funding mechanism to emerging patterns of action
